While the conference was in session in the private office of Mr. Wells, Assistant Postmaster A. B. Kesler appeared and asked for information as to the probability of mail cars being interfered with in the morning, stating that he would at once apply to Colonel Lockwood at Fort Douglas for protection for the cars if interference were likely to be the case. Sheriff C. Frank Emery appeared at the general offices of the street car company before the conference adjourned and was immediately called to President Bancroft's office in the Deseret News building. The conference adjourned shortly afterwards, and General Manager Wells and General Superintendent Buckingham, afterwards, and General Manager Wells and General Superintendent Buckingham, with Superintendent Hunt of the street railway company, went to Mr. Bancroft's office, where a long conference was held with Parley Williams, chief counsel for the Oregon Short Line, and Sheriff Emery. It was announced after this conference that arrangements had been made with Sheriff Emery for adequate protection for all cars that will be operated to-day.

Still willing to meet the officials of the company once more and attempt to settle the difficulty. President Bancroft addressed the following letter to the executive board of the the difficulty. Sixteen Captains.

Having passed through many strikes, Mr. Pratt has learned the wisdom of per-fect organization and systematic methfect organization and systematic methods of procedure. Already he has di-ods of procedure. Already he has directed the striking street car men to organize into squads of twenty-five each. Sixteen captains have been chosen to guide the efforts of these squads. These captains are: J. O. Brunson, R. A. Moss, S. A. Hill, jr. P. B. Bousman, W. H. Linck, W. J. Allen, J. J. O'Leary, F. W. Ormond, C. A. Brunson, D. A. Neilson, W. B. Randall, G. W Call, F. E. About half of the regular number of people were in attendance and the same was true with regard to the choir.

"I endured agony that words cannot express from St. Vitus' dance, which followed a very severe spell of rheumatism. I doctored with a physician; but the more I took of his medicine the worse I got. My mother's devotion saved me. After she had become almost heart-broken, as well as physically exhausted from constant care, by the advice of a neighbor she procured a bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine. From the first dose to the last a continual change for the better was noticable, and when I had taken eleven bottles I was well, and in robust health."

The only arrest of the day in connection with the strike was that of Bert Spotten, a non-union conductor, arrested by Patrolman Phillips on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Spotten was conductor on Murray car No. 45, one of the first of the few cars to run yesterday. On his second trip yesterday morning a crowd of newsboys and others gathered on the corner of Second South and Main streets and swarmed on his car.

In trying to get them off he struck one of the smaller boys with a pair of brass knuckles. This incensed the crowd and men and boys piled on the car after the conductor. Others cut the trolley rope close to the pole, and things looked dark for Spotten. He would have been roughly used by the mob, had not P. J. Parmer, one of the union strikers, come to his rescue. The union man sprang on the car and pushed back the crowd that "For the men, I wish you would say," said J. H. Lamont, president of the local division, "that not one of them can be charged with taking part in any of the disturbances that occurred today. The men are under strict discipline. They are ferbidden to indulge in intoxicating liquor, even to the slightest degree; the penalty for a violation of this rule is a heavy fine. The men nave subscribed cheerfully and eagerly to every pledge exacted from them in regard to their conduct. You doubtless have seen for yourself that there are very, very few of our men on the streets; they are at home, and far from the scenes of disturbance.

"We earnestly desire to co-operate with the police lepartment and sheriff's office in maintaining order, and we will see to it that none of our men become engaged in any difficulty. We are confident of winning this strike on its merits solely, and we realize that even the remotest approach to irregular conduct on our part would operate against us. If any missiles have been thrown, you may paste it in your hat that they were not thrown by our men.

"Further to protect ourselves and to leave no possibility for mistaken identity, ar order has been made requiring every union street car man to wear his uniform and can." If you have to walk down town today you had better think over the clothes question while strolling.
